Dear reviewer:

We express our gratitude for the suggestions for the improvement of the "Digital nomadism in Spain: policy and place during the COVID-19 pandemic" manuscript. We have considered all of them. In the main text we have highlighted the modifications in grey.

Additionally, we offer an outline of the elements that give coherence to the whole document as well as the main text with the respective modifications (in grey), as responses to each of the proposals.

Answer to your comments:

1. The paper's aims have been more clearly defined after improving the section of the introduction. The objectives and hypotheses have been presented and defended better.
2. The hypotheses are raised inductively from the interpretation of the collected information. Statistical testing is not considered, because it is outside the scope of this study.
3. The list of sources and the methodology have been described more accurately with emphasis on the qualitative approach. There is a mention of the processes of categorisation and selection of cites from virtual documents and interviews using an inductive method. This can contribute to the creation of future theories after collecting other case studies.
4. The source of the data (Lines 91 and 92, now line 121) has been indicated.
