322	I strongly recommend to reorganize table number 6.	We understand that due to the size of the table and amount of information provided in it, it might have been to cluttered and thus confusing. We have omitted the last column "Scope/EPD type" since this information can in fact be deducted from the life cycle stages that each EPD covered (as marked on the same table). We have also adjusted the width of the first column in the hopes that the table is now clearer.
233	Figures 2 and 6 can be compiled in one figure and it won't decrease the readability of the article.	We have incorporated this comment and compiled Figures 2 and 6, now all graphics are grouped together in Figure 2.
