In the present study author investigates Romanian consumer's sustainable food-related habits and opinions during purchase and consumption, but also on waste management.
It contributes to highlight consumer's behavior related to sustainable food related habits and their distrust in European institution.
The manuscript is moderately well written, results are appropriately presented and well discussed based on supporting data and literature.
This is a highly interesting and original work which require minor corrections before publication.

General remarks – Strength and weakness

This research article is really highly interesting and well pointed out the current need of consumer approval to achieve European sustainability objectives.
However, to be more impacting, author need to accurately check spelling, punctation and sentences which are sometimes unclear, not understandable, specifically within he introduction.

Specific comments

- Abstract

L6-7 – the "o" of ".ro" is not comprise in the mail link
L19-22 – character size is different

- Introduction

Line 40 – "fulfill" instead of "fulfil"
L46 – Ref [6] need to be move at the end of the sentence
L50-54 and L59-63 are similar, I think you want to keep the red part and remove L50-54
L58: "but is only based on" instead of "but based only on"
L74: "p.34"??; L77: "p.5"??; L79: "p1"??
L86: remove "because" and a [12], it's not necessary and facilitates the reading
L93: if it's the "older people" who have higher income and education, remove the ","; if it's not, please checked the sentence, or add "people" before with.
L99-100: I don't understand what you want to explain with "and customers who erroneous anticipate some information like 99 the price or expiry dates"
L102: "Next to sustainable food" instead of "Next to eating sustainable"
L116: "tons" or "tonnes" instead of "tones"
L119: "and" instead of "-"
L134-135: please add "," between "some" and "such"
L135-137: There is repetition of "they are", please simplify the sentence
