Referee report

This paper explores a practical approach to achieve research goal. This model has the potential to enhance efficiency and productivity, foster greater trust and transparency in the manufacturing process. The authors carefully revised the manuscript and made some changes to the version according to the comments of the reviews. Therefore, I think that the paper makes a contribution and has the potential to be published.