Influence of synthetic bone bed substitutes on the anchoring behavior of open-pored cup implants

I commend the authors for putting in a well written manuscript about the evaluation of the anchoring behavior of various dimensionally designed press-fit acetabular cups against a variety of commercially available bone bed materials. The experimental procedures were enough described. Conclusions drawn from the results were logical. I would recommend publishing this manuscript with minor edits.

Please check the cross referring format within the manuscript for the following error:

- “Error! Reference source not found (lines 91, 112 and so on)”
- Check for minor grammatical errors and sentence formations