Response to Revision Opinions of the Manuscript

1. Figure 4 it is not clear what units on the Y axis. In order to solve this problem, the author has deleted the fifth part of the article (compared with the results of other methods) when simplifying the paper, so Figure 4 has been deleted.

2. Not very clear the purpose of the research. It needs add information about the research application possibilities in practice and results reliability. It needs add discussions section. In this section need to discuss about research results. In the conclusions must clearly show what problems the researchers have solved and which results are better than the results of other researches.

   In view of this problem, the author has made some modifications to the full text, focusing on the modification of the conclusion part, clarifying the content of this study, adding a discussion of the calculation results, see the revised draft for details.

3. The article should be arranged according to the requirements of the journal.

   In response to this problem, the author has re-typesetted and revised the full text according to the requirements of your journal. For detailed typesetting, please refer to the revised version.